

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 12, 1834.

MAINE ELECTION.

Last evening's Mail furnished us the following additional returns:—

Counties.	Dunlap.	Sprague.	Seat.
York,	25 towns,	4795	3662
Cumberland,	26 do	6205	4933
Lincoln,	28 do	334	4516
Pembscott,	9 do	1704	1493
Kennebec,	29 do	3526	5715
Somerset,	11 do	1089	1242
Oxford,	8 do	1282	1005
Waldo,	15 do	2338	754
Hancock,	1 do	218	229
Total in	152 towns,	24,501	23,549
			621

Dunlap's plurality over Sprague, 952; majority over the whole, 331. The above towns embrace Mr Sprague's strongest portion of the state. We are out of the woods now, Master Walter.

In Kennebec, Mr Sprague's own county, and the scene of his own personal efforts, the federal net gain since last year, over all other candidates, is only 126!!—While the little democratic county of Waldo, in 15 towns, shows a net democratic gain of 500.

In Augusta, there has been since last year, a net democratic gain of 42!

We have a letter from Lincoln County, which says that "Judge Bailey has been elected to Congress by about 300 majority over Mr. Kavanagh." More than 8000 votes were cast.

If we could make up our minds to pity politicians as perverse as the federalists, a fitter opportunity than the present for bestowing our sympathy upon them would not occur in a century. We shall at once be understood as referring to the Maine election, which not only involved their feelings to a great extent, but their money also; and, odious as their politics are, when we reflect that they have sowed both these commodities by the way side, and that they have borne tares abundantly, it is with the greatest difficulty that we can refrain from dropping a tear to their fate. If they were wise enough to learn any thing from experience, an increase of knowledge might compensate for their present unhappiness; but they are not, and each successive year finds them the victims of over-abundant credulity. If we were called upon to prescribe for them, we should recommend a free application of Dr. Plantou's Phrenological Rasp to the bump of credulity, accompanied by a thorough search for the root of the tree of common sense.

Col. Benton's Letter, 2d August, to the Frederick County Committee. We give the following extract, as a beacon to the Democracy of the country, to guide them in their future elections. The Bank party is the only party in the nation opposed to the great principles of the Constitution—and it must be put down, or it will put down the Constitution:—

"The next Presidential—the impending Congress election—every election, State and Federal, now, and for years to come, will be contested upon the question of Bank or no Bank! The Bank party—and it is by that name that the whole discordant mass which now marches under the banners of the Bank, ought to be known, and will be known—the Bank party, I say, will contest any election, from President to Constable, on the question of Bank or no Bank. And shall the friends of the Constitution, and of the States, fail to contest them on the same grounds? Shall they be startled and run off upon another scent, by the artifices of the enemy, while every question worth contending for—the limitations of the Constitution, and the rights of the states, are steadily pursued by that same enemy, in the absorbing, unvarying question of Bank or no Bank? The impending Congress elections, above all, will enlist the whole united engines of the Bank party. Defeated in the open field, the Bank now looks to the dark conclave of a Presidential election in the House of Representatives, to carry her candidate into the Presidential Chair; and there, by the combined patronage of the Blue Book and the Bank Ledger, to carry her charter, for what time, and upon what terms she pleases."

A Good Sign.—The democratic delegates of Lyeon County, Pennsylvania, have nominated Gen. J. B. ANTHONY, as a candidate for Congress, and JOHN A. GAMBLE, and THOS. TAGGART for the Assembly. Previous to the nomination, Messrs CRAWFORD and PIATT, the old members declined being candidates. It was resolved, that no person but such as are open and avowed friends of the national and state administrations, and decidedly opposed to the RECHARTER of the U. S. BANK, be put in nomination by the convention for any office whatever.

"Distress."—The Bank men are as much "distressed" as ever, and really we see little prospect of their being "relieved." In the first place, the Bank itself distresses them amazingly—it is to them the poisoned shirt of Nessus: in the second place they are "distressed" for a presidential candidate, not one of the half score they have on hand being able to command any political capital. All the comfort we shall give them at present is contained in a declaration recently made by one of their leaders,—an Ex-President, we came near saying—"that the administration will be sustained by the people, and that its opponents might as well give up the point."

All the Decency.—At a meeting of the Salem East India Marine Society, resolutions disapproving of the erasure of the President's name from the books of the Society, were REJECTED!! Any man who would venture to publicly approve of such an act of petty malignity, would, we should think, be guilty of any crime, where meanness was the predominating quality.

There is no truth in the rumor that the Federalists had their guns placed upon the Common, loaded and primed, on Tuesday evening, awaiting the arrival of the Eastern mail. They only had the cartridges made.

P. S. The said cartridges will be sold low, to close a concern.

Cleveland, Ohio, is one of the most pleasant and flourishing towns upon the borders of Lake Erie—it contains about 5000 inhabitants, and is rapidly increasing in population, and affords an excellent opportunity for capitalists to invest their money in real estate, which is fast advancing in value there, and presents strong inducements to the enterprising emigrant. Prints and a map of the town may be seen at the book store of Mr Otis Clapp, School street.

Life of Andrew Jackson, President of the United States; by William Cobbett, M. P. for Oldham. New York: Harper & Brothers. 1 vol. 18 mo. pp. 196. 1834.

A life of Andrew Jackson, by William Cobbett, may well be considered a phenomenon; but it is easily explained, when we recollect that they have both been soldiers, and always been the sworn friends of the people, and the vigilant guardians of their rights. Cobbett's election to Parliament was not more extraordinary than Jackson's elevation to the Presidency; but they both show the popular progress of freedom, and the retrograde march of aristocracy and despotism.

It is a singular fact, that an Italian, Botta, should have given us the best history of the United States—and that an Englishman should have given us the best biography of one of our most distinguished Presidents. Cobbett's Life of Gen. Jackson contains more solid information in the small space of less than two hundred little octodecimo pages, than any, or all, of the octavos that have been written. He gives you the gist of the subject—ideas, not words—facts, not speculations.—We will not descend to particulars, but venture to say in gross, that Cobbett's Life of Jackson will be considered, on perusal, as the most worthy of any of the original. It is dedicated, with great propriety, to the people of Ireland, and illustrated with a medallion print of the Hero of New Orleans, which, though faulty in the upper lip, cannot be mistaken for the Old Roman—there is no mistake in him; he is an original: he wears a wig of his own natural hair, bigger than any of the wigs of modern "Wigs," and a sounder cerebrum and cerebellum beneath it. The "wigs" only want his brains, and they would conquer him. This they lack, and he conquers them. So much for Cobbett.

A Tablet in plaster, eight feet six inches, by nine feet six, has been recently completed by W. J. Coffey, of Albany, to be placed in the Albany City Hall, opposite the one erected to the memory of Walter Scott, bearing the following inscription:—

"DE WITTE CLINTON:
Public Benefactor—to his Memory—
By the citizens of Albany."

Steel Pens are most villainous concerns—not one out of a dozen is good for anything, and when you do find one that will make a mark, it will not serve you more than half of the time—we lost fifteen minutes yesterday while bothering with one of these rascally affairs, and the dollar we gave it and the rest of its fellows, all in a row upon an ill-looking card—bad luck to them.

Mr Norcross will exhibit his Patent Water Dress, and apparatus to be used for recovering property sunk in rivers, &c., at Merchants' Hall, this day, from 8 to 12 o'clock; and at 5 o'clock this afternoon he will make a descension at the Mill Dam, to gratify the curiosity of our citizens.

Mr Durant was again compelled to postpone his ascension yesterday, on account of the high westerly wind, which would have probably baffled all attempts to inflate the balloon. He will ascend this afternoon, if the weather will permit.

Indiana.—Complete returns from the election of Governor in Indiana, have come to hand. The vote stands—for Noble, 36,056; Read, 26,425; majority for Noble 9,631.

We like the New York Knickerbocker Magazine—its contents are good-natured and amusing—there is none of that ascerbic in its pages which pervades those of the New England. Success to it.

Opposition Decency.—The Albany Daily Advertiser accuses the Reverend John Leland of lying.

The N. Y. Board of Health reported 30 deaths by cholera on Wednesday.

State Convention.—For the last two days the Convention have had under their consideration, and been debating the article relating to the right of suffrage, the article declaratory of certain rights of the people of this State, and the article relating to the Judiciary. The convention have acted with more unanimity than was expected upon the questions relating to the right of suffrage. They have met and rejected every endeavor to essentially vary or change the right of suffrage as it now exists in this State. They have strictly adhered to the land qualification, except in the case of oldest sons, and all motions to adopt a qualification founded on personal property have been rejected by large majorities. The Bill of Rights will be changed in but a few particulars from that which we now have in the statute book.—The article on the subject of the Judiciary is as fruitful of debate and amendment, as the one on the right of suffrage. Very few are in favor of the annual election of the Judges. The committee to whom the subject was referred, have reported that the Judges should be appointed by the joint vote of the two houses of the Legislature, the Chief Justice for the term of six years, the second Judge for the term of four years, and the third Judge for the term of two years, and all subsequent appointments at the end of these terms, for six years, to be removed by impeachment or a joint vote of both houses of the Legislature, two thirds of the members of each house concurring. Some are in favor of their appointment for good behavior, but this will not be agreed to by the Convention.—Prov. Jour.

We notice that some of the opposition journals have taken a good deal of pains to make Mr Van Buren appear as vacillating in his politics, by alleging that in the convention of 1821, he advocated the removal of power from the people. The utter falsehood of this statement will be apparent to any one who will take the trouble to read the report of the proceedings of that convention. The extension of the elective franchise was opposed by all the powers and eloquence of Judge Spencer, Chancellor Kent, and Elisha Williams. Mr Van Buren was one of the committee who made a report in favor of the extension of the right of suffrage, and at page 255 of the report of the proceedings of the convention, will be found his speech in its support—a speech, the doctrines of which comport with the whole tenor of his life, and which exhibits a triumphant refutation of the statements made by his traducers.—Roch. Dai. Adv.

Villainous Conduct.—Yesterday morning, it was discovered that the ship Tallahassee, loaded and bound to New Orleans, with a cargo worth 400,000 dollars, was found to have sprung a leak. The pumps were immediately put in motion, and the cargo was saved from damage. On examination, it was found that several auger holes had been bored between wind and water during the night. The underwriters, we learn, are determined to offer a liberal reward, in the hope of a reaching the offenders.—N. Y. Gaz.

In the vicinity of Galena, a mother presented her husband, at a birth, a boy and two girls, who were all healthy and doing well. The Galena says—And the most interesting part of it, that she was alone at the time, and for some hours afterwards.

POLICE COURT.

"Tis honor pricks me on."—The auditors of the Police Court were edited yesterday afternoon, by a rich treat of "high life below stairs," which transpired upon the arraignment of Edward Waylen, an Englishman, charged with sending a challenge to fight a duel, to an Italian gentleman, who styles himself Count Alessandro Gharaldi, from Florence. The sending of the challenge was not denied by Waylen, who took offence at some attentions which the Italian paid a young lady, with whom W. was an accepted lover. Waylen gave a very circumstantial account of the rise and progress of his love for the young lady, and the cause of the challenge, and spoke with diplomatic circumlocution and pompous verbosity, but we have only room for the peroration, of his speech:—"I was induced, nay, compelled, in a manner, I would say, to send the note to him, because of his frequent intrusions on Capt. —'s family, where I have the honor to board, and whom he, taking advantage of the relaxed notions of etiquette prevalent in this country, took the liberty of continually annoying by his uninvited visits. In this family there was a young lady, and I was thrown into her company—and, of course, was pleased with her society—walked her out—took her to church. In short, I paid her all those attentions, the meaning of which your honor knows so well how to understand, and which were accepted on her part in the most unequivocal manner. In fact, she plainly gave me to understand that she was absolutely disengaged—that she was perfectly open to any proposal.—Well, this Mr Gharaldi called at the house on Sunday evening, and he was introduced to me as an Italian gentleman, but who he is nobody knows, and he comes nobody knows whence. The whole family manifested the greatest oppugnation towards him. The young lady herself has a great horror of the Italian character, and her aunt and every one united in congratulating her on escaping from a husband from that classical region, as it is a well known fact that an Italian in New York lately bit his wife's nose off. Well, as I believe I remarked before, the young lady was excessively annoyed by him that evening, and gave him a hint, as plainly as she could do, without being guilty of a breach of politeness, which, in fact, she is incapable of committing, to leave the house—indeed, I thought she decidedly cut him. I was in hopes never to see him again, but on Monday night he returned, and renewed his ruffianly attentions—I call them ruffianly because no man but a ruffian, would intrude himself on a lady to whom he is disagreeable—and as I was looked upon, by the rest of the boarders, as her favored suitor, I conceived myself called upon to act, and no man with a single spark of honor in his breast, or moral courage in his heart, could have refrained from so acting, as your honor's own feelings will inform you; and I was never more surprised and astonished in my life, than I was to see my open and manly challenge answered by a constable's warrant."

Having vindicated, to his own satisfaction, his conduct and motives, in chivalrously challenging the Florentine Count, Waylen proceeded to analyze and nullify the technicalities of the complaint, which he dignified by the title of an "indictment." After referring to my Lord B.'s affair with Mr H., and other instructive duels, he concluded by laying down some original and amusing principles of law respecting the framing and phraseology of indictments, maintaining "that if it contained a single wrong word, it must crumble to dust, and fall to the ground, and himself be fully acquitted;" but his brilliant display of legal erudition, and citations of English laws, were uncourtously interrupted by the Court.—I have no manner of doubt, but that the letter is a challenge, and if you have any defence to offer, you can avail yourself of it before a jury. You must give bonds for $1000, to appear for trial at the next term of the Municipal Court.

Waylen.—The fact is, my lord, it will be a very serious inconvenience to me.

Court.—I presume it is, but I can't help it. Committed for want of bonds.

From Nassau.—The Baltimore American has received files of the Bahama Argus to the 27th ult. inclusive. The British Government schooner Nimble arrived at Nassau on the 26th, having in charge the Portuguese schooner Felicidade, with 164 slaves on board. The F. was captured off the east end of Cuba. The captain, two mates and boatswain of the slave, the only white men on board, (the remainder of the crew being all blacks,) took to a boat before the Nimble could get up to her, and made their escape. The editor of the Argus complains against the introduction of such large accessions to the colored population, especially as there is not sufficient employment for the blacks already there.

The American brig Susan, Lombard, master, from Jeremie, St Domingo, bound to Philadelphia, with a cargo consisting of coffee, cocoa, dye wood, &c., was lately wrecked off the Hogsties. The master, crew, and a part of the cargo, had been saved and taken to Nassau in his Majesty's schooner Pincher, Lieut. Bosanquet.

Extravaganza in medical opinions.—There is a long article giving the grounds of the newspapers on the excellence of tomatoes in "quicken the action of the abdominal viscera," which we should suppose under the tonic and astringent regimen recommended in these cholera times was the last subject that ought to merit attention. There is also a Dr Crookshank, in an Ohio paper, who has the supreme condescension to inform the public that one of the most admirable specifics in cholera is that most ferocious of all cathartics, Croton Oil; especially when conjoined with the equally deleterious drugs of antimony and spirits of turpentine. This too in the face of the almost universally approved and sound doctrine of rather discouraging than promoting too much action in the alimentary canal. There is no end or measure to the extravagant speculations and crude opinions which diurnally disfigure the columns of our journals on medicine as well as on politics, religion, and other matters. But this very free discussion has a redeeming power which corrects its own abuses. Upon this rests our hope that truth and reason must ultimately triumph.—N. Y. Star.

Trial for Perjury.—We learn from the Mechanic's Reading Room Books, that at the Court of Common Pleas on Wednesday at Concord, came on the trial of John Welch, Esq. of this city, charged with perjury.—The case was conducted by the County Attorney, Asahel Huntington, on the part of the government, and by Daniel Webster and Samuel Hoar for the Defendant. The case was given to the Jury at 6 P. M. who rendered a verdict of not Guilty without leaving their seats.—The Complainant Jones, a gardener formerly in the employ of Welch, was on the stand three hours; and with one other person called in his behalf, was the only person examined.

The Secretary at War passed through Beaver, a few days ago, on his return to the seat of government.

To-day we complete the publication of nearly all the election returns in this State. We have not the means of acquainting our readers with the party politics of the members elect, generally. In this Congressional District, 15 out of the 18, and in the Mecklenburg District, 6 out of the 9 members elect, we believe, are in favor of the administration. In Cumberland county, the very seat of the U. States Branch Bank, the administration party have obtained a handsome victory. But in the borough of Fayetteville, the bank and opposition candidate was elected, by a majority of 100 votes. We entertain very little doubt that the opposition party in the next Legislature will on joint ballot be amply able to elect a Senator.—N. Carolina Spec.

The Republican Convention held in this village yesterday was more numerous attended than any delegated convention we recollect ever to have witnessed in this country. Every town, except one, was fully represented. It was cheering to witness so many of the intelligent yeomanry of the county congregated together—all appeared animated with one feeling—unalterable attachment to the republican institutions of our country, and uncompromising opposition to the Tories, whether known as National Republicans, Whigs, or Nullificationists, all of which terms means one and the same thing.—Batavia Times.

Ohio.—By letters from Ohio, we learn that the democracy of this young but powerful State is in motion. The Hamilton County Convention (the largest ever assembled in the county,) was held at Cheviot, on the 23d ult. Mr Lytle, the present eloquent representative, was re-nominated to Congress with great enthusiasm.—He will be re-elected by an increased majority over Storor, the bank attorney.

Mississippi.—A gentleman direct from Natches informs us that Mississippi stands second to one in favor of the administration, and that Pointedexter's hopes are over. The people are furious against his Arnold-like course, and he will be driven with disgrace into private life.

Dudley Selden in his letter resigning his seat in Congress, speaking of the Bank, says—
"From the first moment I examined the charter of the Bank, I was dissatisfied with some of its provisions. It possesses too great capacity to make and accumulate profits, and too great power in locating branches and operating upon the circulating medium of the country."

This is an admission of the Bank apostate representative of the city of New York. Why, then does this man support the Bank, and its measures, which he cannot but own, is wrong in principle and dangerous in its provisions? It is because he is a wig in the Indian sense of the word.—Worcester Rep.

Political prospects in all sections of our State, grow brighter and brighter as the election approaches. Notwithstanding the exertions of the various factions which compose the opposition, to avoid the issue, the question will be "Bank or no Bank," and the democrats of Pennsylvania will express their sentiments in relation to this mammoth institution, in a tone which will make the aristocracy tremble.—Pennsylvania Reporter.

Notice has been given by the Treasury Department, that the Five per cent. Stock of 3d of March, 1821, and also the Five per cent. Stock of March, 1824, will be redeemed on the second day of January next. Notice is further given, that no transfer of the certificates of said first mentioned stock from the books of the Treasury, or any Loan Office, will be allowed after the first day of December next.—Phil. Int.

The Buffalo Patriot extra of Friday, announces the appointment of Col. O. H. Dibble, of Evans, Erie county, as postmaster at Buffalo. The Patriot, the anti-masonic organ, for once approves of the act of the department, and says that the "appointment will give very general satisfaction."

An insurrection has broken out among the mountain districts of Syria, between St Jean d'Acre and Jerusalem, against the tyrannical oppressions of Ibrahim Pacha. These people are Christians, and the principal chieftain is Emir Besheer, who it is said can bring 20,000 of his hardy followers into the field. Napoleon did not like to contend with them, and we doubt if Ibrahim could easily subdue them. The circumstance has caused much excitement in Egypt, and large reinforcements have been sent on.

Perpetual Motion.—A man by the name of Barr, is now exhibiting in Washington, Penn., what the editor of the Reporter calls "the great Mechanical Curiosity of Perpetual Motion." We do not learn the operation, nor the construction of the machine, but we presume it is like all other perpetual motions, for there is a new one about every year—"it is extremely simple, and works with astonishing facility." Whether it has wheels, pinions, levers, &c. we do not know, but are merely informed that there is a "Barr" to it, which, we presume, is the probable moving power.—Phil. Com. Herald.

Flogging, as we have seen by a late atrocious case at London, not only prevails in the British army, but also in the famous college of Eton, where, however, there is this advantage, that the sprig of nobility, though he be Bueclough or a Wellington, must suffer alike with the untitled commoner. Recently, a young man there, aged 19, the "Captain of the Boats," not knowing his lesson in Horace, was condemned to the rod, but would not submit.

Recovery of Stolen Property.—The large amount of property of which Mr Hayes of Poughkeepsie was lately robbed, was discovered in this city, a day or two since, by Mr Sparks and Messrs Jacob and Benjamin Hayes. That part of the property which consisted of silver, had been melted down by the robbers and sold for about one half its value. The remainder, consisting of jewellery, plated ware, &c, had sustained no injury. N. Y. Jour. Com.

The royal musical festival at Westminster Abbey, yielded about $34,000, which was divided equally between the four principal musical associations. This is practically upholding the most delightful of accomplishments.

Lightning.—During the thunder storm yesterday, the lightning struck one of the dry-houses on the Merrimack corporation, and run down the outside—without doing any material injury.—Lowell Jour.

We learn by the ship Bell, from Savannah, that the lowest Union candidate exceeded the highest nullifier about 250 votes.

A smart tornado passed through the city of Charleston, (S. C.) on the 31st ult. It took with it the vegetable market.
